President’s Message

By Meeti Nigam, NCMSA President; nigammeeti@gmail.com

Dear Friends:

I want to take this opportunity to thank the board and the many compassionate community members, leaders, partners, and supporters for what they have meant to our community and to me. You all encapsulate the purpose of our mission through your efforts and serve as an inspiration to myself and our organization as a whole.

With gratitude, my two-year term as president of the North Carolina Medical Society Alliance comes to a close at the end of the annual meeting in May. I am very fortunate to have had the opportunity to work in this capacity as president from 2022-2024. It has been a fruitful two years and I have enjoyed every aspect of it, from our board meetings to traveling to Raleigh and Greensboro to celebrating 100 years of hard work and this amazing Alliance. I am personally very proud of our ongoing achievements and I identify deeply with the value we place on relationships and the belief that we can, and always will, do more together than we do alone. Our mission strengthens us.

The NCMSA has always been an organization you can count on and that will not change. Thanks to dedicated volunteers, leadership, physician community partners, and countless others, we will continue to advance our work to bring people and resources together to meet community health needs. I am extremely confident the NCMSA will continue to give, advocate and volunteer for the well-being of the physician community and families. I know I am in good company and our potential is limitless.

The following wisdom from Maya Angelou has guided me in life, and I trust it will do the same for you: “Do the best you can. But when you know better, do better.” I hope I did. I hope I have. Thank you again for your many compassionate actions, support, partnership, and friendship. I am so thankful, humbled, and inspired — and I will always treasure these moments and times together.

Sincerely,

Meeti Nigam
After a downturn in the number of deaths by suicide in the US in 2020, the rate of suicide began to climb to 14.5 deaths per 100,000 people in 2022.¹ In that same year, between 300 and 400 doctors died by suicide.² That is a 40% higher rate among male physicians and a 130% higher rate among female physicians compared to the general population.²

It is hard to talk about suicide. And if you are the healer, charged with the responsibility of looking after others, it can be very hard to admit that you are struggling with suicidal thoughts, depression or substance misuse. As a community, we need to make channels available so that those discussions are easier to initiate. In supporting our physicians and physician families, as well as others in healthcare, we need to bring this problem out into the open to find solutions.

Betsy Gall, our guest speaker on May 15, is speaking all over the country about physician suicide after her oncologist husband, Dr. Matthew Gall, tragically and unexpectedly took his own life on Thanksgiving Day in 2019. Betsy recently wrote a book titled The Illusion of the Perfect Profession. It is a story about love, physician suicide, and finding comfort and purpose in the aftermath. Betsy will share her story with us and answer questions.

Dr. Joseph Jordan, CEO of the North Carolina Professionals Health Program (NCPHP), will follow Betsy to discuss the support the NCPHP offers health professionals, allowing them to seek help, recover, and return to their careers.

The NCMSA hopes you will attend this vital discussion at the Greensboro History Museum on May 15. Heavy hors d’oeuvres will be served in the lobby at 6:15 pm. The program will begin at 7:00 pm in the auditorium. Questions and answers will follow along with dessert. RSVP is requested by May 7 to admin@ncmsalliance.org or 919-810-4081. Admission is free.

988 Suicide and Crisis Lifeline Available Nationwide

By Laura Pinto MHSA, MS, RN, AMAA Programs Council member

The National Suicide Prevention Lifeline is now the 988 Suicide and Crisis Lifeline. In July 2022, the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration launched the 988 Suicide and Crisis Lifeline, which replaced the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline. The change is in response to the increasing number of people reporting mental distress, and the need for improved access to and mobilization of mental health services.

The increase in calls to the crisis line has been significant: from about 50,000 in 2005 (when the initial support line was established), to over 2.5 million in 2021. Data from August 2022 show that the new 988 number saw a 45 percent increase in contact volume compared with August 2021 (Smith, T. October 19, 2022. 988 – the new suicide prevention hotline – sees big increase in use. Available at: ama-assn.org.)

The 988 Suicide and Crisis Lifeline is a national network of more than 180 local crisis centers in all 50 states. According to 988lifeline.org, “People experiencing suicidal ideation, substance use, and/or mental health crisis, or any other kind of emotional distress can call, chat, or text 988 and speak to trained crisis counselors.” This lifeline is available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, and provides free and confidential support and resources.

National Doctors’ Day 2024 – Honor the Unrelenting Work of Physicians

By Susan Edens Hammer, NCMSA Secretary; sjehammer@att.net

Doctors’ Day was March 30. We invite you to recognize physicians and physicians in training by donating in their honor or memory to our NCMSA Health Education Opportunity Fund. A donation for Doctors’ Day will help the NCMS Alliance support the family of medicine and build effective partnerships to promote programs to effect positive change across our state.

On the first Doctors’ Day, March 30, 1933, a physician’s spouse in Barrow County, Georgia sent cards to all the doctors she knew and placed red carnations on the graves of those deceased. Doctors’ Day continues to be an opportunity to recognize the unrelenting work of physicians and their contributions and commitment to medicine and service in their communities.

You may make your donation online at https://ncmsalliance.org/Donate. If you are giving in honor or memory of someone, please let us know in the comment section. Also, you may postal mail a note and check payable to the NCMS Alliance, 3739 National Drive, Suite 202, Raleigh, NC 27612.

Celebrate physicians who have helped you, took that extra time to answer your questions, or made a lasting impression on you. Provide us with the email and/or postal mail addresses of honorees and families of memorials so we can notify them of your donation. Honorees and memorials will also be recognized in the fall Tarheel Tandem.

A Word from Racheal Kunesh, AMA Alliance President and NCMSA Past President

As I pause to write this article, I am deep into preparations for our family’s annual St. Paddy’s Day Party — a tradition since 2005, with an occasional break for high school graduations and COVID. Neither my husband nor I are of Irish descent, but we thought this would be a fun gathering to carve out. Over the years, we’ve added an optional fundraising element to the party. When I served as president of the North Carolina Medical Society Alliance, our party goers donated funds for our childhood obesity projects. Other years our friends generously supported Lizzie’s Girl Scout Gold Award and Isaac’s Eagle Scout projects. This year I invited friends to donate to AHEI with proceeds going towards sponsorship of our AMA Alliance Annual Meeting speaker Dr. Stefanie Simmons, chief medical officer from the Dr. Lorna Breen Heroes’ Foundation.

Why do we do this? It feels good to do good! Giving of our time and effort for a cause we believe in gives us a sense of fulfillment. Studies show that when we do a good deed, the “happy chemical” serotonin is released in our body. The Alliance affords us the opportunity to do good in so many ways, all while connecting with amazing people.

Medicare Needs Fixing — Now

By Merrilee Gober, BSN, RN, JD; AMA Alliance Legislation and Advocacy Council member

Since 2001, adjusted for inflation in practice costs, physician payments from Medicare have declined 30 percent. And, instead of federal laws in place to reverse this sheer drop, physicians annually face Medicare cuts unless Congress intervenes with legislation. Of course, these cuts disproportionately affect small and independent physician practices — particularly those in more rural communities with older patient populations. But, ultimately, even practices without Medicare patients are affected, since private insurance companies commonly use Medicare fees as guides in setting their own fees for services. Adding insult to injury, all other Medicare providers get automatic yearly inflation-based payment updates.

AMA President Jesse Ehrenfeld, MD, recently stated, “As physicians, we are trained to run toward emergencies. We urge Congress to do the same. We encourage Congress to act [as] if this policy decision is an emergency because — in fact — it is.”

You can help! Contact your US senators and representatives. Let them know of the difficulty that your older Medicare family members have in getting care. Request Medicare physician payment reform that has an automatic annual inflation update. Learn more — download social media materials and send Congressional emails at www.fixmedicarenow.org.

2024 Community Health Classroom: Bone Up On All Things Orthopedic:
October 24 was a fun and informative day, as 160 community members Bone Up on All Things Orthopedic! We are most grateful to our generous sponsors and our wonderful participants, who rotated through breakout sessions and learned about back pain, joint replacements and bone health!

Sip & Shop With BraveWorks: On November 2, we had an opportunity to hear just a few stories of incredible transformation and hope, behind each beautiful handmade item at BraveWorks. BraveWorks empowers women and families overcoming trauma and injustice, and bridges the gap from pain to purpose!

Ask Anything About Women’s Health … Anonymously! We had a blast with Dr. Alyse Kelly-Jones as she answered our most intimate questions about women’s health! She tackled the three most common discussions she has with her patients including low libido in women, menopause, and the truth about hormone therapy.

Obesity, Weight Loss Drugs, and the Food-Mood Connection:
Dr. Carmen Teague, Atrium Health, shared powerful data, affirming:
1) As a society, we are fat.
2) Obesity is a disease and it’s very difficult to lose weight.
3) There are systemic programs, including medications, that can help!

Dr. Teague described the GLP-1 agonists on the market that are having significant results for weight loss, including side effects. In addition to being a remarkable mother and physician, Dr. Teague is also the author of the FUN and funny book, “Motherhood, Medicine, and Mayhem”. While she generously gifted one to each person present, ALL proceeds go to benefit Bless Back Worldwide!

Foster Village Charlotte Site Visit: Alliance members were inspired by a visit to community partner and grant recipient, Foster Village Charlotte. Meeting urgent needs through welcome packs, ongoing support groups, workshops and one-on-one clinical support, FVC equips foster families with immediate resources and connects them to a village of support! Learn more about this amazing organization at fostervillagecharlotte.org.

The Big Picture Screening at Teen Health Connection:
Healthy Charlotte Alliance had an incredible opportunity to preview vignettes of “The Big Picture”… written by teens, performed by teens, including real-talk about the issues teens face every day … and hear from experts, including, ahem, teens, on some of the age-old issues of adolescence and some of the new challenges facing this generation. Thank you Teen Health Connection, for all you do to support adolescents in our community. We even got to meet Pixie the therapy dog!

Nutrition and Cancer: On March 5, 40 members and community members enjoyed an informative program from Stephen Hursting, PhD, from the UNC Nutrition Research Institute, on Nutrition and Cancer. Dr. Hursting discussed often preventable, controllable risk factors, such as diet/obesity, smoking, infection, sun exposure, and alcohol consumption, and emphasized the data-proven links between eating a healthy diet, maintaining a healthy weight and reduced cancer risk. Specializing in precision nutrition research, Dr. Hursting and his team at the Nutrition Research Institute are developing the resources that will enable health providers to replace the one-size-fit-all nutritional guidelines, with personalized recommendations for optimal health.

Michelle G. Ries, MPH, Interim President and CEO of the North Carolina Institute of Medicine is the Keynote Speaker at Annual Meeting Morning Session

Michelle G. Ries, MPH, is Interim President & CEO of the North Carolina Institute of Medicine, and also currently serves as Associate Director.

Ries has been on the NCIOIM team for over a decade, serving the Institute and the state across many roles within the organization. During her tenure with NCIOIM, Ries has provided strategic leadership to the Institute in its work providing advisory support to state stakeholders across many integral health policy issues. Ries led much of NCIOIM’s work over the first two years of the COVID-19 pandemic, including providing facilitation and drafting support for the North Carolina Scarce Resource Allocation Protocol (in partnership with the North Carolina Healthcare Association and the North Carolina Medical Society) and the Vaccine Advisory Committee (in partnership with the NC Department of Health and Human Services); Ries has directed task forces and served as primary author on task force reports including Improving Serious Illness Care in North Carolina; Dementia-Capable North Carolina, the state plan for addressing the needs of people with dementia and their caregivers; and the Task Force on Essentials for Childhood, a statewide collective plan to prevent child maltreatment and ensure child and family well-being. Ries also spearheaded NCIOIM’s pioneering Legislative Health Policy Fellows program, which provides state lawmakers and their staff with the data and resources needed to make effective decisions about the health of our state. Prior to her work at NCIOIM, Ries worked as senior program associate in the International Health Policy and Practice Innovations program at the Commonwealth Fund. Ries received her MPH from Columbia University’s Mailman School of Public Health and a B.A. with honors in dramatic art and anthropology from the UNC-Chapel Hill, where she graduated Phi Beta Kappa. She is a 2019 graduate of Leadership North Carolina.

A Holiday Lunch at Vivo. Big deal? Yes.

By Virginia Scanlan, Wake County Alliance member

Well, we made it. We survived the Covid catastrophe. More than a million citizens dead. An economy decimated. People imprisoned in their own homes. Physicians risking their lives to serve others. An historic disaster. But here we are, grateful that we are alive and that some things never change.

In the lives of physicians’ spouses, one of those “somethings” is the Alliance and the comfort and camaraderie that membership brings. At an Alliance gathering, you don’t have to explain yourself. Everybody knows what your life is like because we have lived it. Kindness and empathy perfume the air we breathe together, as it has been for generations.

My mother, grandmother, and probably my great-grandmother were members of the Cook County Medical Auxiliary in Chicago. In that era of medical practice, doctors worked seven days a week. They did hospital rounds every day, were on call every night, and saw patients in their offices, even in the evenings. The doctors’ vocations became their wives’ vocations. And to meet the challenges of serving as their families’ ever present steady hands, the wives turned to each other for guidance and support. They became lifelong best friends. They first met at auxiliary meetings.

Today, the organization of medicine has changed but the Hippocratic Oath has not. Medicine is a serious endeavor and its challenges to family life remain much the same. And the support of the Alliance’s membership endures. Innovation does not reduce the need for friends. A computer cannot be your friend. (Yes, I’m looking at you Alexa!) We are here for you.
