Jane Tesh is a retired media specialist and pianist for the Andy Griffith Playhouse in Mt. Airy, NC, the real Mayberry. She is the author of the Madeline Maclin Series, featuring former beauty queen Madeline "Mac" Maclin and her con man husband, Jerry Fairweather, and the Grace Street Mystery Series, featuring PI David Randall, his psychic friend, Camden, Randall's love interest, Kary Ingram, and Cam's career-driven girlfriend, Ellin Belton, as well as an ever-changing assortment of Cam's tenants. Jane's mysteries are published by Poisoned Pen Press and Savvy Press. Butterfly Waltz is her first published fantasy novel from Silver Leaf Books, followed by A Small Holiday, The Monsters of Spiders' Rest, Over the Edge, Too Much Magic, and Too Many Spells. She has recently published a stand-alone mystery, Ghost Light, set in the world of community theater. All of Jane's books are on the light side, with humor and romance. (copied from her website)

Jane grew up in Greensboro on Spring Garden Street and then Manor Drive. Her father, Clyde Tesh, was principal at Wiley Elementary, Lindley Junior High, and Jackson Junior High. Her mother, Peggy Tesh, taught kindergarten and first grade at Wiley and Sternberger. Jane graduated from Lenoir Rhyne with a BA in English and earned her Masters in Education at UNC-G.
